He just got caught and it's probably time to hang up the gloves. I worked out with him yesterday morning and he looked really good and felt really strong but I could tell he was just moving a little slow and tentative to engage.

I would think no time to screw with after last night. Did he get caught or is he just done? Press sounds like he shouldn't have fought?

Hi Matt I wanted to email this to you, but our system is down for maintenance. So I took a screenshot of it. I thought this was taken care of but obviously it's not. The only way it can be taken care of is by a personal appearance bond is currently $5,000. I apologize but one of the clerks who has since been fired screwed this up and the judge is demanding a personal appearance please let me know if I can do anything else I'll try have a good time

If you drop it I will owe you a cold beer. Believe me, she won't say a word or I will hold her while  waterboards her. They're super close friends of mine and normally stay at my house but I have family here.

I agree that's a bit much. She's normally a total saint so I'm surprised she was speeding at all. She's mortified and was shitting bricks when she told me. I told her she embarrassed me and she got teary eyed and apologized.

I just chewed her ass out for you again. Her and her husband  are here to hang out with us for their spring break and for me to do some training with her husband while he's getting ready for a fight. He's a famous UFC fighter and is going to karate chop her when he finds out she got a ticket here. She said  gave her the ticket and I had to fight off laughing when I said he's the Chief. Haha
